A CHRIST-BASED SCHOOL BUILT ON ONE BELIEF: EVERY NONSPEAKING STUDENT IS FULLY CAPABLE

WHY WE'RE STARTING THIS SCHOOL

True Vine Mission was founded by three mothers whose sons communicate through The Spellers Method, spelling out words, letter by letter, on a letter board. After watching their own sons go from being assumed incapable to expressing complex, capable thoughts, they set out to build a school where every nonspeaking and minimally speaking student starts from that same belief: presume competence. The Spellers Method is to these students what Braille is to the blind, not a treatment, but an access point. It gives them a way to reveal the thinking, intelligence, and voice that were there all along.

THE NEED

Marginalized academically

- Thousands of brilliant nonspeaking students are trapped in repetitive "life-skills" tracks despite high cognitive potential.

Systemically overlooked

- Denied grade-level science, history, and literature because of motor challenges, not intellect.

Silenced by assumption

- A lack of speech is mistaken for a lack of thought.

THE IMPACT WE EXPECT

Restoring dignity

- Giving a voice to students who were assumed to have nothing to say.

Transforming families

- When a nonspeaking child can finally communicate, it changes how parents parent, how siblings relate, and how the community sees that child.

Pioneering a model

- A replicable, faith-based blueprint for special education, launching February 2027.

WHAT WE'RE BUILDING

The Sanctuary

A classroom built with sensory-safe architectural design.

The Tools

Motor-planning equipment and specialized therapy spaces.

The Access

A model where no capable student is left behind.

The Experts

A world-class team of trained communication partners.
